

66th ISLE Conference of the Indian Society of Labour Economics, Symbiosis International University, Pune

19th to 21st January 2026

The 66th Conference of the Indian Society of Labour Economics was successfully held at Symbiosis International University, Pune, bringing together eminent economists, researchers, and academicians from across the country. The conference served as a vibrant platform for scholarly exchange on contemporary labour and economic issues.

Prof. Anup Kumar Mishra actively participated in the conference as an Executive Committee (EC) member. He contributed significantly to the academic discourse by chairing a technical session and presenting his research paper. His participation also extended to engaging discussions during the General Body Meeting, reflecting his commitment to advancing labour economics research.

The conference witnessed rich deliberations, policy-oriented discussions, and meaningful interactions among renowned economists, fostering intellectual collaboration and knowledge sharing.

A key highlight of the event was the announcement that the next ISLE Conference will be hosted by the Department of Economics at Banaras Hindu University. This was met with enthusiasm, and congratulations were extended to Prof. Nidhi Sharma and her team.

Overall, the conference proved to be highly productive, strengthening academic networks and contributing to the ongoing dialogue on labour economics and development in India.
