

Faculty Media Coverage: Uttar Pradesh Budget 2026-27

11 February 2026

A faculty member of the Department of Economics, DAV PG College, Varanasi, Prof. Anup Kumar Mishra, received notable media coverage for his expert analysis on the Uttar Pradesh Budget 2026-27.

In an article published in Wednesday Times, Prof. Mishra highlighted the emerging economic identity of Purvanchal through an investment-driven growth model. He emphasized that the state budget focuses significantly on capital expenditure, infrastructure development, industrial corridors, logistics, and urban transportation, positioning them as key drivers of growth and employment generation.

He further discussed the role of public investment in stimulating economic activity through multiplier effects, leading to increased income and consumption. Special attention was given to sectors such as MSMEs, agriculture, and skill development, along with initiatives to enhance female labour force participation and strengthen rural infrastructure.

Prof. Mishra also underlined the importance of balancing physical infrastructure with investments in education and healthcare for sustainable long-term development. His insights reflected a comprehensive understanding of regional economic challenges and opportunities, particularly for Purvanchal.

This media recognition highlights the academic contribution of the faculty to public policy discourse and reinforces the department's engagement with contemporary economic issues.
